for only $150, stipulating that the land should be subdivided into city lots and sold to raise money to support the city schools.

The land was appraised by Thomas H. Giles, Probate Judge, Abram Hatch, Bishop of the Church and Thomas Rasband, trustee for the schools. These appraisers met several different times to consider the prices to be asked for the lots and finally on August 29, 1876 decided that the prices would range from $12 to $20 per lot depending on the exact size. The average lot was 10 by 12 rods in size.

The surveyors who laid out the first lots in Heber City used the best equipment available to them, but it was limited in many ways. In 1888, about a year before Heber was organized as a township, William Buys, Wasatch County surveyor, checked the city and found it was "crooked."

His field notes record an entry on June 12, 1888 as follows:

"Made a preliminary survey of Main Street and the street running East and West North of Public Square known as Bk. 90.

"Find that the streets do not run at right angles.

"Also that the blocks by actual measurement overrun."
